

Introducing the Trinity CertPT: Certificate for Practising Teachers

Practical skills to transform teaching

The Trinity College London Certificate for Practising Teachers (CertPT) is an innovative new Level 6* qualification that supports the professional development of English language teachers.

Promoting the development of pedagogical knowledge and skills, the Trinity CertPT enables practising teachers, including those with language proficiency below CEFR level C1, to access specialist training and certification that can transform their teaching practice.

Trinity certified professional development

The Trinity CertPT is for teachers seeking to update, improve and enrich their teaching practice. It draws upon qualified TESOL teachers' existing knowledge of teaching practice and theory, while promoting the acquisition and refinement of the specialist skills needed to develop and use effective teaching resources.

Course participants develop their ability to evaluate, adapt, create and reflect on the use of context-specific teaching resources. Teaching contexts include, for example, teaching young learners, teaching online, teaching English for specific or academic purposes, or teaching within CLIL (content and language integrated learning) settings.

The Trinity CertPT is a Level 6 qualification, which is between an initial Level 5 teacher education certificate and an advanced Level 7 diploma qualification.

Innovative assessment model

Depending on course provider arrangements, teachers can learn through face-to-face, online or blended courses. Because the CertPT assesses pedagogical skills rather than language ability, they have the option of submitting their written assignments solely in English, or bilingually in English and Spanish or English and Mandarin Chinese.

Allowing the submission of assessment tasks in these languages extends access to Trinity-certified professional development to practising teachers working in a range of different local teaching contexts.

* Level 6 on Ofqual's Register of Regulated Qualifications

† The language of assessment of the written CertPT tasks is indicated on the certificate – additional languages of assessment may be available in the future

Key features

Teachers complete a course of study and submit four written tasks for assessment. The tasks require them to demonstrate that they can develop and use context-specific teaching resources, showing pedagogical knowledge and insight appropriate for a Level 6 qualification.
